The Lambrate District, in the Northeast area of Milan, is an historical industrial part of the city; among the most important reality, a special mention goes to Innocenti that in the second half of the previous century, here produced thousands of iconic Lambretta and Mini. From 2000, the district has been the subject of an upgrading, which is still going on thanks to its constant evolution.

Cult location of the Milan Design Week, the area is the symbol of innovation, freshness and quality. A cannot miss location for all the lovers and the experts of the field that visit the Fuorisalone. Described as the new Italian Brooklyn, Lambrate brings you out of the Milan chaos, to put you in a dimension that exudes ideas and innovation.

Given the importance and the role it plays in the promotion of Milan as one of the reference point and international showcase for design, the Lambrate Design District is sustained by Institutions and Authorities as the Comune di Milano – Assessorato Politiche del lavoro, commercio, moda e design and also by important media partners.
